

“Please
RSVP!”

The New Bridgeman Times.

Evening
Edition

www.bridgemanart.com

NEW YORK, OCTOBER 2008

rsvp@bridgemanart.com

SEX SCANDAL ROCKS PICTURE LIBRARY

Shocking revelations!

The Times has just obtained what appears to be the official invitation to the Bridgeman Art Library web launch and annual party confirming the party venue to be the Museum of Sex in Manhattan. As previously reported by the Times, rumors surrounding the venue of the Bridgeman party had been circulating for weeks. The Times rang several photo buyers and researchers for comment and while all were unwilling to be named for this article, a photo buyer for a major New York publishing house stated, “Seriously? What are they thinking? What happened to the usual Garden Party, that was “sexy” enough for me, thank you very much!” Upon further questioning however, the buyer later stated that he had already confirmed his attendance by emailing rsvp@bridgemanart.com. The event’s date and time are revealed to be Tuesday, October 28th, 7-10pm at the Museum of Sex (233 Fifth Avenue at 27th Street).

© Private Collection/ Bridgeman Art Library
Bridgeman's 2008 invitation

© Courtesy of the Warden and Scholars of New College, Oxford/ Bridgeman Art Library

A Bridgeman too far?

Bridgeman President breaks his silence

In a statement released this morning, Bridgeman President Edward Whitley shrugged off the criticism stating “We are delighted to announce our plans for this year’s party and web launch celebration and we look forward to a thoroughly stimulating evening for all the senses. The Museum of Sex is the ideal venue to revel in the forbidden and toast those ideas and works of art which have prevailed over censorship throughout the ages. Artists continually push against the establishment and are only recognized for it by later generations, similarly, we hope to raise a few eyebrows and lower some inhibitions.”